Clinical and business leadership helping clients improve outcomes, manage complexity, and achieve ROI

Gayle is a Senior Consultant with TPG Data Services (TPG-DS). TPG-DS transforms the way providers and payors monitor healthcare information to control costs and enhance efficiencies.

Gayle is an innovative, caring, and pragmatic clinician who combines clinical expertise, business knowledge, and strategic vision to help clients develop practical solutions that improve member care, strengthen operations, and deliver return on investment. She has a strong track record of building consensus, aligning stakeholders, and helping organizations create long-term strategies that are both forward-thinking and realistic.

Gayle is particularly strong at bringing multidisciplinary teams together to better manage complex patients and at using data-driven approaches to identify high-impact populations, prioritize interventions, and guide client decision-making.

Her consulting experience includes support for health plan RFP responses, readiness preparation for new business, pharmacy department assessments, clinical program development, managing risk contracts and PBM contract reviews, audits, negotiations, and contracting strategy. With extensive experience in Medicare, including dual-eligible populations, and Managed Medicaid, Gayle integrates regulatory requirements into client processes while maintaining focus on broader strategic goals.

Prior to TPG, Gayle held senior leadership roles at multiple health plans. Earlier in her career, she worked in a PBM, long-term care pharmacy and retail pharmacy. Gayle has her MBA from Bentley College and pharmacy degree from Mass College of Pharmacy and Allied Health.
